DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statements (IDS) submitted on 6/5/01, 7/19/01, 8/28/01, and 1/31/02 are in compliance with the provisions of 37 CFR 1.97. Accordingly, the information disclosure statements have been considered by the examiner.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to because the system components are not descriptively labeled. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-3, 7-11, 15-19, 23, and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nelson. (US Pat. No. 5,710,605).

As to claim 1, Nelson discloses a remote controller for an interactive television system. The system comprises a video display, receiver, and a remote controller (i.e., computing device), which displays an EPG; thereby allowing the user to search the EPG while viewing broadcast programming on the television display. (Abstract; Fig. 1; Col. 1, Ln. 10-13, 33-41, & 64-67 thru Col. 2, Ln. 1-9). Although not explicitly disclosed, it is inherent the system contain a receiver for receiving the satellite broadcasts disclosed at Col. 1, Ln. 33-41. Therefore, Nelson anticipates each and every limitation of claim 1.

Claims 9 and 17 correspond to the system claim 1. Accordingly, each is analyzed and rejected as previously discussed.

As to claim 2, Nelson further teaches the EPG can be displayed on the television display, while simultaneously being displayed on the remote controller. (Col. 6, Ln. 6-8 & Fig. 4). Therefore, Nelson anticipates each and every limitation of claim 2.

Claims 10 and 18 correspond to the system claim 2. Accordingly, each is analyzed and rejected as previously discussed.

Art Unit: 2614

As to claim 3, Nelson further teaches the remote controller receives the EPG via a modem secured to a telephone line. (Col. 1, Ln. 64-67 thru Col. 2, Ln. 1-9). Therefore, Nelson anticipates each and every limitation of claim 3.

Claims 11 and 19 correspond to the system claim 3. Accordingly, each is analyzed and rejected as previously discussed.

As to claim 7, Nelson further teaches the video display can be a television. (Abstract). Therefore, Nelson anticipates each and every limitation of claim 7.

Claims 15 and 23 correspond to the system claim 7. Accordingly, each is analyzed and rejected as previously discussed.

As to claim 8, Nelson further teaches the remote controller can be used in conjunction with satellite systems. (Col. 1, Ln. 33-41). It is inherent the satellite system contain some sort of receiver for demodulating and/or demultiplexing the satellite signal. Therefore, Nelson anticipates each and every limitation of claim 8.

Claims 16 and 24 correspond to the system claim 8. Accordingly, each is analyzed and rejected as previously discussed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
  2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
  3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
  4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.
4. Claims 4, 5, 12, 13, 20, and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nelson in view of Shen et al. (US Pat. No. 6,401,059).

Claim 4 recites the system of claim 2, wherein the computing device is a wireless device. As discussed above, Nelson discloses all limitations of claim 2, but fails to specifically teach the limitation of claim 4. However, within the same field of endeavor, Shen et al disclose a similar system in which the computing device is a wireless PDA. (Abstract; Col. 1, Ln. 53-67). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in this art at the time of applicant's invention to combine the systems of Nelson and Shen in order to provide a PDA which also functions as a remote controller, thereby providing a user with extended functionality.

Claims 12 and 20 correspond to the system claim 4. Accordingly, each is analyzed and rejected as previously discussed.

Claim 5 recites the system of claim 2, wherein the computing device is a Personal Device Assistant (PDA). As discussed above, Nelson discloses all limitations of claim 2, but fails to specifically teach the limitations of claim 5. However, within the same field of endeavor, Shen et al disclose a similar system in which a PDA is utilized as a remote controller within a television broadcast system. (Abstract; Col. 1, Ln. 53-67). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in this art at the time of applicant's invention to combine the systems of Nelson and Shen in order to provide a PDA which also functions as a remote controller, thereby providing a user with extended functionality and control.

Claims 13 and 21 correspond to the system claim 5. Accordingly, each is analyzed and rejected as previously discussed.

5. Claims 6, 14, and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nelson in view of Elliot. (US Pat. No. 6,473,097).

Claim 6 recites the system of claim 2, wherein the computing device is a Web Phone. As discussed above, Nelson discloses all limitations of claim 2, but fails to specifically teach the limitations of claim 6. However, within the same field of endeavor, Elliot discloses a cellular phone which can receive/transmit data from/to the Internet via radio frequencies. (Col. 3, Ln. 35-45 & Col. 4, Ln. 36-46). Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in this art at the time of applicant's invention to combine the systems of Nelson and Elliot in order to provide a system capable of utilizing a mobile phone having EPG capability as a remote controller, thereby providing the user with extending functionality and control.

Claims 14 and 22 correspond to the system claim 6. Therefore, each is analyzed and rejected as previously discussed.
